ONLINE INTERNATIONAL WEBINAR /TECHNICAL LECTURE BY PROFESSOR FROM INTERNATIONAL SKILL DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (ISDC), UK on 01.12.2020

The Department of International Relations & School of Science & Humanities organized an International Webinar - 2020 on “Standing Out from the Crowd” for all the first year B.Tech students on 01st December 2020 at 2.00 p.m. at the Bharath Institute of Higher Education and Research by Dr. P Kamaraj, Dean (S&H) and Dr. A Manikandan, HoD (S&H). The International Webinar started exactly at 2.00 p.m. through Zoom meeting. The Chief Guest of the webinar was Prof. Teresa Jacobs, Executive Director of Learning & Development, International Skill Development Corporation, London (UK).

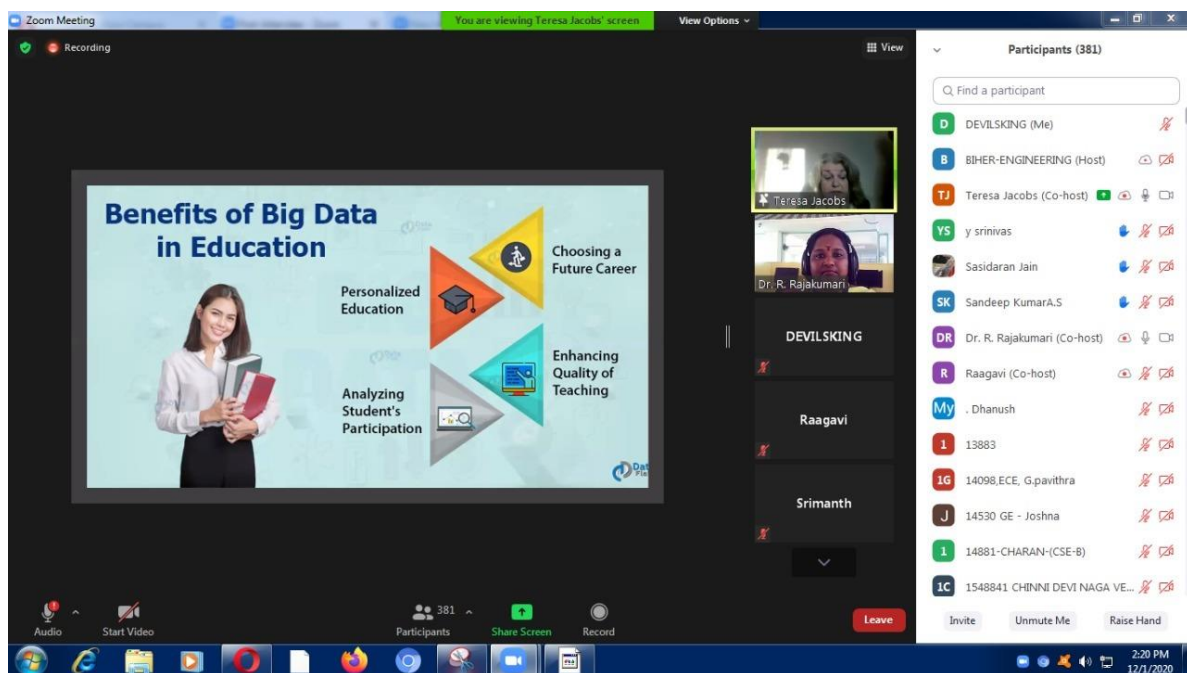

The Guest speaker, Prof. Teresa Jacobs was introduced by the Dr. R Rajakumari, Associate Professor, Department of English. Prof. Teresa Jacobs, Executive Director of Learning & Development, International Skill Development Corporation, London (UK) addressed the first year students on the topic, “Standing Out from the Crowd” by beginning the session in an Indian traditional way of lighting the lamp. The Guest Speaker, Prof. Teresa Jacobs delineates the significance of technology and insisted the students to have a wider perspective of technology as engineering students. She said “One Child, One Student and One Teacher can change the entire world”.

Prof. Teresa Jacobs further added by saying Education is the greatest weapon and the students of engineering should learn to adapt and focus on their aim to achieve their target. She advised the students to watch the movie, “Three Idiots” as the movie is about the importance of Practical Education. Also, she suggested the students to watch the American movie, “Yes Man” as the man challenges himself to say “Yes” to everything and soon his life starts to change positively, giving him opportunities and new perspectives of how to live. To add on the point, she emphasizes the students to plan before an action to reach one or more goals and work towards it to become successful. She opined that the degree alone is not enough for a student to shine and achieve in life.

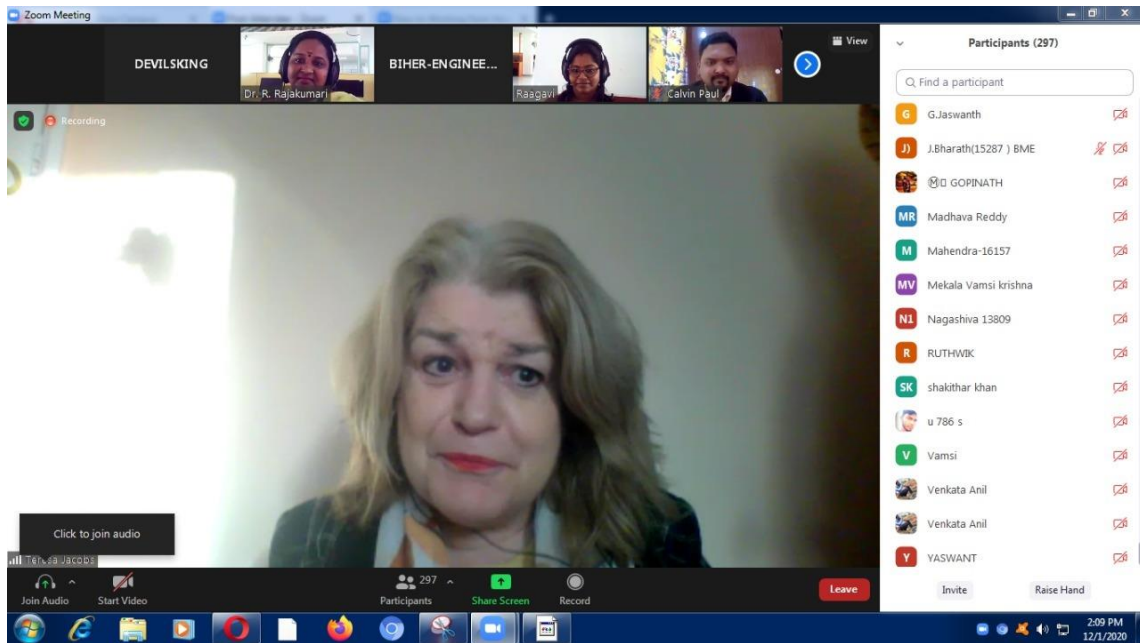

In addition, Prof. Teresa Jacobs gave an insight on the significance of Employability and its enormous power in what one does. Further, she added by saying that the students are the unique generation and attitude in them matters a lot. At the end, she opined that the next generation will focus more on analytics of data and gave an insight about the job sectors that use analytics specialists. Also, she said that there will be huge demand with good packages for Analytics of data. Finally, Prof. Teresa Jacobs asked the students to stand out from the crowd and showcase their talents. She adds that nothing is more expensive than a missed opportunity.

More than 550 students participated in the International Webinar - 2020 on “Standing Out from the Crowd”. On the whole, the session gave an insight on the consequence of setting goal, planning work, and utilising opportunities, standing out from the crowd by being different and on the significance of Analytics of Data.

The Vote of Thanks was rendered by Prof. A S Raagavi, Assistant Professor in English.
